

Yummy in my Tummy: Review & Giveaway

Yummy in my Tummy; what can I say? Their name says it all. Drew LOVES this stuff, there isn't a flavor that he will not eat and enjoy. I was a little concerned about the carrots & beets because he has never had beets before but he ate everything. I was also a little worried the chili might be too much for him, but he thought it was just right. I was a little confused by the pizzas. They come two in a package and I think you are supposed to cook 1 pizza in the container it comes in, but I am probably wrong. My husband didn't think that was right and just put one pizza in the oven by itself. Of course, it burnt it to a crisp. So, then we put one in the container and it came out perfect. I think the Dutch apple and apple oatmeal are probably Drew's favorite flavors (this coming from the boy who started off hating apples).

Seriously, I will be buying more of this food for Drew. I've been putting some of these items in his lunch box too and his school said he eats every last drop. Mind you, this is while he is teething and generally disinterested in food right now. My husband and I eat take out a lot and we usually make Drew his own meals (bad on us I know, but it is what it is). I also tend to waste a lot of food because I don't get around to cooking it all since it is just for Drew. So, it is such a relief to get a break every now and then and still know that he is getting a great tasting, fresh and healthy meal. What I like most is that they put veggies in everything, even the mac & cheese. I highly recommend that you guys try Yummy in my Tummy for your little ones.

YIMT is gracious enough to give our readers a 15% discount by using the code ABF15 when checking out an order on their website.

YIMT is also being extremely gracious and allowing us to give away a gift certificate good for 24 containers (a one week supply) of organic food tailored to the winner's baby or toddler needs.

MAIN ENTRY: Visit Yummy in my Tummy's fantastic website. Come back here and leave me a comment telling about what food items your baby/toddler would be interested in.

SECOND ENTRY: Subscribe to my blog and leave a separate comment letting me know you did so. If you already subscribe, just leave a comment letting me know.

THIRD ENTRY: If you have a blog, share this giveaway with your readers then come back and make a separate entry by leaving us the direct link to the post in the field "URL."

FOURTH ENTRY: Become of Yummy in My Tummy fan on Facebook. Leave me a separate post giving me your user-name for verification.

I will number your entry in the order it is received and use random.org to pick the winner!

This giveaway ends August 31, 2009.

Winners will be contacted by email where I will request an address to mail the prize. Again, your information is confidential and used for this giveaway only. If I do not get a response back from a winner within 4 days of notification and address request, I will select a new winner by random.com.

Thank you and good luck!